PART XI – MISCELLANEOUS

Part XI sets out miscellaneous provisions and comprises clauses 79 to 89.

Clause 79 provides that references to an application, appeal or other step in relation to legal proceedings being taken upon notice to the other parties to the arbitration proceedings, or to the arbitral tribunal, are references to such notice of the originating process as is required by Rules of Court.

Clause 80 provides for Rules of Court to be made for conferring on the Clerk of the Court or other officer of the court, all or any of the jurisdiction conferred by this legislation on the court.

Clause 81 provides for arbitral proceedings to be conducted privately and confidentially.

Clause 82 provides for the making of Rules of Court.

Clause 83 provides for proceedings under this Law in any court to be heard in open court unless a party applies for those proceedings to be heard otherwise.

Clause 84 provides for the imposition of restrictions on reporting of arbitral proceedings heard otherwise than in open court.

Clause 85 permits the parties to agree on the manner of service of any notice or other document required or authorised to be given or served in pursuance of the arbitration proceedings.

Clause 86 provides for the parties to agree on the method of reckoning periods of time.

Clause 87 provides that the legislation binds the Crown.

Clause 88 deals with the making of regulations and rules to give effect to this Law.

Clause 89 contains transitional and repeal provisions.

The Schedule contains a model arbitration clause which may be used by parties in the formulation of an arbitration clause to facilitate the conduct of arbitral proceedings.
